A message from leadership

Dear Friends,

The annual impact report serves as a chance to pause and reflect. It is our opportunity to express gratitude for your unwavering support, and celebrate the collective achievements we've made over this past year.

At St. Joseph's Medical Center, our leadership, medical professionals and staff recognize the pivotal role philanthropy plays in the past and future. We are now beginning the Cortopassi Tower—a future expansion featuring 24 ICU beds, 10 operating rooms, 30 pre/post-op beds, 120 private rooms and a new and expanded emergency department. Your support honors our past and ensures our future.

With the support of over 1400 donors, we've raised $19.6 Million in Fiscal Year 2026 to further our mission and enhance access to quality health care for all.

As you peruse the uplifting stories of gratitude and impact in the pages ahead, remember that it's your compassion that enables St. Joseph's Medical Center and St. Joseph's Behavioral Health to deliver exceptional care. Medicine continues to progress, and our work remains unfinished. Together, we continue making a meaningful impact and, through the Cortopassi Tower, we will actively transform the lives of every patient we serve.

We extend our heartfelt appreciation for your confidence, collaboration and steadfast support. We are profoundly grateful for you.

With gratitude,

David Ziolkowski

A Gift of Healing: Community Philanthropy Funds $17 Million Pediatric Expansion at St. Joseph's

St. Joseph's Medical Center proudly announces the grand opening of the newly renovated Valley Legacy Foundation Pediatric Unit.

As the only dedicated pediatric unit in San Joaquin County, this $17 million project stands as a monumental achievement in local healthcare, entirely funded by the generosity of our philanthropic community.

The expanded 7,000-square-foot facility increases our capacity to 18 pediatric beds, featuring private isolation rooms and an interactive playroom. This expansion ensures that our youngest patients receive specialized care close to home, sparing families the burden of traveling outside the region during difficult times.

"This unit was built through the unwavering commitment of our donors," says David Ziolkowski, President & CEO of St. Joseph's Medical Center. "Their philanthropy fully funded this project, proving that when our community unites, we can provide world-class, specialized care for our children. This is a gift of health and hope that will serve families for generations."

The unit integrates advanced clinical infrastructure, including state-of-the-art telemetry monitoring, upgraded HVAC systems for superior air quality, and increased medical air capacity. These improvements provide our team of board-certified pediatric specialists and Certified Pediatric Nurses with the tools necessary to treat complex conditions with precision and vigilance.

Beyond the medical technology, the unit focuses on the healing process. Every detail, from child-friendly décor to dedicated spaces for parents to stay overnight, was designed to keep families together.

"Our mission is to provide compassionate care where it is needed most," notes Dr. Cristina Funghi, Chair of the Department of Pediatrics. "Thanks to the vision of our donors, we have created a healing environment that balances high-level clinical rigor with the comfort families deserve."

This expansion positions St. Joseph's to meet the evolving needs of San Joaquin County, ensuring our children receive the highest quality care in an environment built specifically for their well-being.

A Legacy of Healing: The Singh Family's Enduring Partnership with St. Joseph's Medical Center

For the Singh family, supporting St. Joseph's Medical Center is part of a broader commitment to Stockton: strengthening healthcare through patient care, medical education and community service.

Dr. Jagjit Singh, a board-certified nephrologist and internal medicine physician, has practiced in Stockton since 1990. Across outpatient, hospital, dialysis and intensive-care settings, he has cared for patients with chronic kidney disease, hypertension, acute kidney injury and complex multisystem illness. He has also held leadership roles with local dialysis programs, mentored physicians and taught medical students.

His wife, Balraj Singh, a Clinical Laboratory Scientist and active member of the St. Joseph's Medical Center Foundation Board, brought forward the idea for a graduate medical education program and helped gather local physicians willing to teach. She went on to bring physicians from the community together to pledge their time and expertise to educating students. Her work reflects a wider view of philanthropy: support can include financial giving, but it can also mean identifying an unmet need, building support around an idea and helping bring people together to address it.

The family's commitment continues through their daughters and son-in-law. Dr. Jasmine Singh is a board-certified psychiatrist with a private practice in Stockton. Through television, radio, podcasts, print and social media, she has shared mental-health perspectives with local, national and international audiences. Her husband, Dr. Sandeep "Sunny" Mann, is a board-certified family physician and addiction medicine specialist who established Mann Primary Care in Stockton in 2023. Their younger daughter Sonum Singh, who lives in Los Angeles, remains connected to the family's efforts to support healthcare in her hometown.

The Singhs hope their work will help Stockton thrive by investing in future physicians, strengthening local care and encouraging collaboration. They recently hosted a gathering of physician leaders and St. Joseph's executives to discuss the region's healthcare future. For the family, these efforts reflect a shared aspiration: a healthier Stockton and a lasting culture of helping and healing.

Bridging the Gap: The Salon Event

The Singh family's influence was on full display recently when they hosted an exclusive Salon event at their home. The evening served as a bridge between the clinical and the communal, bringing together an esteemed group of the region's physician leadership and the Executive Leadership team from St. Joseph's Medical Center.

The atmosphere was one of shared purpose. Discussions moved beyond the daily clinical grind, focusing instead on the long-term future of healthcare in Stockton. By facilitating these conversations, the Singh family proved once again that their greatest gift to the medical center isn't just their financial generosity, but their ability to bring people together to solve complex problems.

Engaged in the conversation: Attendees listen to a presentation by Julie Eckardt-Cantrall, VP & Chief Philanthrop Officer regarding the goals and achievements of the Deep Roots New Growth campaign.

Looking Toward the Future

As the Singh family continues their advocacy for St. Joseph's, their impact remains tangible. From the corridors where residents now train thanks to Balraj's GME vision, to the boardrooms where the hospital's future is debated, the Singhs are leaving an indelible mark.

"For us, it's about the community," Balraj has often noted. By investing in St. Joseph's, the Singh family is not just supporting a hospital—they are investing in the health and vitality of every family in Stockton.

As they look toward the next chapter, one thing is certain: the Singh family's passion for St. Joseph's is not just a chapter in their lives, but a legacy that will serve the Central Valley for generations to come.

Beyond the Diagnosis: Strengthening Our Surgical Pathology Frontline

In the operating room, time is of the essence and is integral to patient care. For patients undergoing surgery that need a real-time intraoperative rapid tissue diagnosis, every minute counts. This year, thanks to your philanthropic support, St. Joseph's has assured the highest quality tissue preparation allowing our Pathologists to provide faster intraoperative tissues diagnoses.

Through a powerful partnership with Stockton Pathology Medical Group and the clinical vision of Dr. Jeffrey McDavit, we have upgraded our surgical suite with the next-generation cryostat technology.

Why Your Impact Matters:

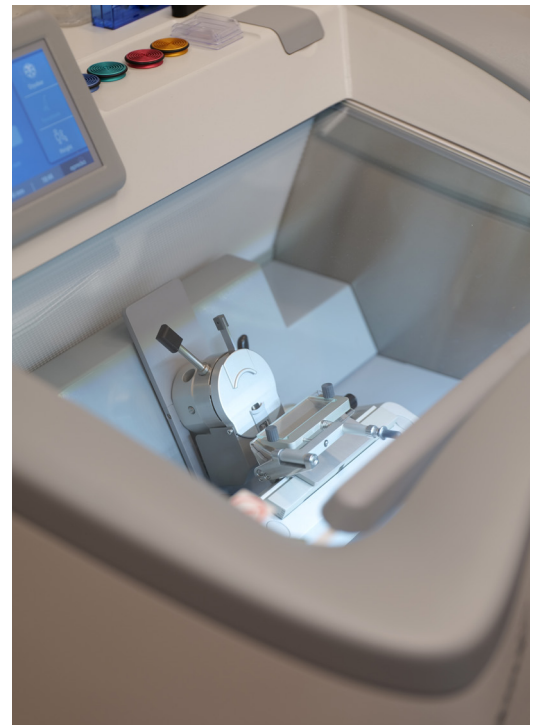

This diagnostic powerhouse allows our pathologists to analyze tissue samples in real-time, delivering immediate, diagnostic results directly to the surgical team. The impact is profound:

- For Patients: Reduced time under anesthesia means a faster, safer recovery.
- For Surgeons: The ability to receive more timely diagnostic information allowing for the best possible surgical approach.
- For the Community: Your generosity ensures that world-class, life-saving diagnostics are available right here at home, without the need for patients to travel elsewhere for specialized care.

"In medicine, we often talk about the surgeon's hands, but it's the eyes of the pathologist that truly guide the procedure. This new cryostat acts as a high-powered lens for our team, giving us the diagnostic clarity to tell the surgeon exactly where to go. Thanks to our donors, we aren't just working faster—we're working with a level of confidence that directly changes patient outcomes." says Dr. Jeffrey McDavit.

Thank you for your partnership.
Your generosity doesn't just fund equipment—it accelerates healing and brings peace of mind to the families of the San Joaquin Valley.

Dave Silva: Outstanding Volunteer Fundraiser

Foundation Board Member, Dave Silva, was recognized at the Community Philanthropy Day with the Outstanding Volunteer Fundraiser Award. Dave represents the heart of our mission through his generosity, steady leadership, and unmatched ability to unite others behind a shared purpose.

Dave's work goes far beyond his personal contributions; he is a master at building a community of givers. A clear example of this is his leadership of the Bassinet Upgrade Campaign. After identifying the need for better equipment, Dave organized a group of influential donors to secure over $60,000 for 12 new bassinets. This effort directly improved the quality of care for our smallest patients and proved that when Dave leads, people respond.

Dave also looks to the future of our hospital. By recruiting his daughter-in-law, Jehna Silva, to serve on the Foundation Board, he has helped foster a multi-generational culture of philanthropy. This dedication to mentoring the next generation ensures that the values of service and care remain strong for years to come.

Whether he is championing our hospital initiatives, or leading benevolence projects at his church, Dave's impact is felt across the Greater San Joaquin region. He doesn't just donate his time; he creates pathways for others to serve as well, turning individual interest into collective action.

Dave Silva is a cornerstone of our philanthropic mission. His ability to mobilize support and his commitment to our patients have made a lasting difference at St. Joseph's. We are grateful for his partnership and congratulate him on this well-earned honor.

DEEP ROOTS NEW GROWTH

THE CAMPAIGN FOR
MEDICAL CENTER

Deep Roots, New Growth: Building a Legacy of Humankindness

For over a century, St. Joseph's Medical Center has served as the heartbeat of the San Joaquin Valley.

Today, that heartbeat is growing stronger. If you drive down North California Street, you can see the initial stages of a monumental transformation—the foundational work for a project that will redefine the future of healthcare in our region.

Following a historic groundbreaking ceremony in late April, construction is officially underway to make way for the Cortopassi Tower. This 200,000-square-foot expansion is the centerpiece of Deep Roots, New Growth—a campaign with a $47 million goal dedicated to ensuring that as our region flourishes, our ability to care for its people keeps pace with that growth.

A Landmark Partnership

The momentum for this campaign was accelerated by a $5 million lead gift from the Cortopassi Family Foundation. This investment is a direct reflection of the family's long-standing belief in our mission. By naming the new tower in their honor, we recognize a local legacy of resilience and innovation that mirrors our own. Together, we are building a sanctuary of healing that will serve Stocktonians for generations to come.

A Foundation for Generations

"This project represents an investment in both the health and economic vitality of the San Joaquin Valley," says David Ziolkowski, President and CEO of St. Joseph's Medical Center.

With $47 million as our campaign goal, the Cortopassi Tower will serve as a beacon of health, healing, and innovation. We invite you to join us in this mission. By supporting Deep Roots, New Growth, you are helping us plant the seeds of wellness today to ensure a thriving, resilient tomorrow for everyone in our community.

The Four Pillars of Our Future

The Deep Roots, New Growth campaign is guided by four goals that dictate how we serve our community:

Elevating care quality and the patient experience

The Cortopassi Tower will add 120 general acute care beds and 24 ICU beds. By shifting to a model featuring private, dignified patient rooms and 10 advanced surgical suites, we are moving beyond treating conditions to caring for the individual. This facility blends leading-edge technology with the compassionate, five-star care for which St. Joseph's is nationally recognized.

Ensuring this region's future access to top clinical talent

Great hospitals require great people. This expansion functions as a launchpad for the next generation of medical professionals. By providing essential clinical training for over 200 physician residents across 11 specialties, we are addressing the regional physician shortage and securing a pipeline of top-tier talent right here in the Valley.

Addressing community health needs like never before

We are expanding our Emergency Department capacity from 66 to 82 beds and adding two dedicated helipads to streamline critical response. These upgrades ensure that when every second matters, our doors are open and prepared. It is our promise to stand ready for our neighbors during their most vulnerable moments.

Making St. Joseph's Medical Center a healthcare destination

By modernizing our infrastructure and strengthening strategic partnerships—including our decade-long collaboration with Kaiser Permanente—we are cementing St. Joseph's status as a regional destination for complex, specialized care. We are building more than just a tower; we are strengthening an economic and social anchor that supports the long-term vitality of the San Joaquin Valley.
